

KANSAS DUCK HUNTERS PIN FAITH IN MURDOCK

Demand That Progressive Leader Have "Open Season" Ruling Changed.

Declare Birds Fall to Alight in That State During Time Specified for Shooting.

"Let Victor Murdock stand for the demands of the duck hunters of Kansas and we will let him lead us onward forever," is the sentiment of the duck hunters of Kansas, who are pinning their faith in the progressive leader of the House today.
His complaint was a serious one and affects a long, dry and dusty section of country between latitudes 35 and 40. The duck hunters of Kansas are so upset because of the open season for their territory by the biological survey that they have petitioned Secretary Houston of the Department of Agriculture to have it changed.

The trouble is that Kansas has just awakened to the fact that when the ducks fly south again they will not alight in Kansas at any time within the newly arranged open season for their territory.
The survey, hoping to give Kansas a good time shooting ducks, closed off an open season for the duck hunters of Kansas from September 1 to December 1.

No Ducks There, Says Murdock.

And during that entire time," said Representative Murdock today, "I don't suppose there's a duck in the whole state of Kansas. Wouldn't we look pretty silly around there with a bunch of guys in our hands waiting for a flock of ducks, when every duck in the world knows that there is no duck in Kansas at any time within the newly arranged open season for their territory.
It is averted, take to water, and you won't be likely to find a duck of wild ones trying to swim in the Arkansas river, when it has been dry from shore to shore all summer and fall.

"Something must be done to keep Kansas from being the laughing stock of the migratory birds," said Murdock.
That there is a more serious side to the situation was also pointed out by the progressive leader. He said that the merchants, powder and ammunition salesmen, etc., are organizing to take the matter up in a vigorous manner.
He said that about a million dollars' worth of the ducking guns will be idle, and that enough wooden decoys will be made up in Kansas woodlands crying wooden tears over the fact that they will be exposed to decay in the Arkansas river when it has no water in it.

Secretary Houston Petitioned.

In a petition presented to Secretary Houston of the Department of Agriculture, and signed by a large number of Whitcomb duckers, it is stated that between latitudes 35 and 40 the fields are titled and the marshes ditched so that little surface water collects in ponds, and that permanent lakes are scarce, and that the only real water for a self-respecting wild duck is to be found in the Illinois, Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri rivers, too far away to be of use to the average Kansas duck hunter.

Because the open season hurts the poor duck hunter, who cannot afford to take trips to other regions the hunters have put the matter up to Representative Murdock, hoping he can change the calendar, the face of Kansas, or the law—they don't care which.

Cruise of Steamer Bache Delayed.

Steamer Endeavor Sails.

Delayed in starting on her oceanographic cruise by the non-arrival of some necessary paraphernalia which was to come from Germany, the coast and geodetic steamer Bache is expected to sail from Norfolk. The material she needs to complete her outfit is expected to reach New York early in the week, and about January 22 she will start for Bermuda on the first leg of her cruise in search of life in the ocean at great depths, and also to obtain data regarding the floor of the Atlantic, its deep currents and the like. From the Bermudas the Bache will return to Key West.

The steamer Endeavor of the coast survey fleet, which has been undergoing repairs at Baltimore, has been completed and has sailed for St. Helena Bay, near Charleston, S. C., where she will engage in survey work. The coast survey steamer Hydrographer is employed in making a survey of the coast waters of North Carolina to gather data for chart correction. Both the Hydrographer and Endeavor will remain in southern waters until the coming of warm weather in this latitude.

AROUND THE CITY

"I don't like to ask you, but will you please give me change for a cup of tea?
I haven't any money with me, and I'm so weak I can't go on."

The woman who asked might have stopped one of dear old grandmother's chairs for the change. Except that there are no penny corners these days, and precious few old grandmothers.
The woman who responded was just a so-so person who hurried on. And then she felt ashamed of herself for not taking the little old dame into a cafe and seeing her safe home. You have to do a thing like that once in a while to feel that you were worth the Lord's creating. So she turned back to alone and had almost ebowed her way through the noon rush to the old woman, when again she heard the quavering appeal:

please give me change for a cup of tea?

As a thing like that is worth making as a woman stood by, and kept her eyes fixed on the old woman, who was after eight women and an earth-shaking young man had paid tribute, the old woman said to herself:

No Ducks There, Says Murdock.

Foreign Correspondence of The Star.

BERLIN, January 7, 1914.

Herr August Thyssen, jr., son of the Rhens "coal and iron king," who is alleged to have debts amounting to $13-$14,000,000, was yesterday sentenced to three months' imprisonment and a fine of $100 for a criminal libel on the business manager of his father's works.

The prisoner begged the court to send him to prison and not to fine him as he would pay nothing. Young Thyssen, who will some day inherit a fortune estimated at $25,000,000, was prosecuted for declaring that his father's manager was practicing "highway robbery" in connection with Herr Thyssen senior's attempts to buy up his son's debts.

The prisoner pleaded in extenuation that his father's people had "tortured" him for three and a half years. He was compelled to exist on an allowance of $100 a month, which was already pledged to a friend who had advanced him money. He was "sold up" every week or two. He desired that the workmen should inherit his father's properties, and for this reason, the family branded him an "agitator."
